FIRE-WALKING AT PINANG.

The following account of a fire-walking ceremony is taken from the Pinang Gazette of September 1:—

Much has been written about fire-walking and much of the literature on the subject has been put forth by the ultra-wise "Travellers' tales," but last night the ceremony was gone through in the Province in a manner that convinced the spectators that it was no masquerade but a plain, straightforward exhibition of powers of endurance of which any man, were he not a fanatic, might be proud.

It was the King festival of Timor, and the coolies upon Trui Estate resolved to celebrate it with all due reverence, including the firewalking, which to the European mind wavers between the supernatural and the foolhardy. Everything had been prepared, and in front of the coolie lines at the Permatangpah Temple, known to the worshippers there as Drobudi Unumun Kovi, a large crowd of some two or three hundred persons had collected. They were all in gala attire, with the exception of the devotees, who were clad in a simple yellow loincloth.

In front of the temple a large fire of glowing charcoal had been prepared. This was from twenty to twenty-five feet in length and about three and a half feet in breadth, the living coals being spread to a depth of a foot. Several stokers kept the glowing mass in order with long rakes, and the heat thrown off showed that there was no make-believe about the fire.

The ceremony was opened by a procession which wandered nearly all round the Estate. It was headed by a couple of figures, dressed in a grotesque garb and representing a man and a woman. Then came the Priest, and following him came the fire walkers, all clad in a simple yellow loin cloth. Next came the inevitable car, without which a King procession is never complete, and the crowd brought up the rear.

Arrived opposite the temple, the Priest took up his stand at the foot of the fire, which extended outwards from him for from twenty to twenty-five feet, and ended up in a shallow pond, in which the devotees were to cool their blistered feet. Then a hegoat was brought forward, and an attendant, stepping to the front, severed the hegoat's head at one blow, after which the carcass was dragged round the glowing fire leaving a long trail of blood. Prayers were then said by the Priest and the real business of the festival commenced.

The Priest, bearing a glowing chatty of fire hot charcoal upon his head, which looked as though it must cook his brains and lay him senseless at the feet of the spectators, then walked slowly and steadily across the glowing fire. It seemed to make no impression upon him whatever, and he bathed his feet in the water as though he were simply washing away the dust of a walk along a Penang road.

Then the devotees, about twenty in number, followed across the glimpse of the floor of hell which had been prepared for them. Some tripped gaily across without the turn of an eyelid, but others plainly showed the strain of the ordeal by their whitened, blistered feet, which one could imagine to be hissing as they touched the cooling waters.

There was one man, though who was evidently made of sterner stuff than his fellows, and he drew himself up into an attitude of "attention" as he stood at the foot of the fire, then strode on to the middle of it with a slow and stately tread, pausing for a few moments in the centre, and passing on, stopped into the tank without apparently feeling the effects at all. Others were not so stoical or lucky, however. One man, on reaching the end of the fiery path fainted, and others showed evident signs of exhaustion. Still, to the European onlookers it seemed as if a single step upon the burning coals must bring destruction. Of the intensity of the heat there could be no possible doubt, the devotees did not appear to be abnormally affected by it. The fumes of the glowing charcoal apparently had no more effect upon them than the contact of their bare feet with the fire, and it is said that they will all return to work after their holiday as though nothing out of the common had happened.

It may be that the feet of the men are chemically prepared to resist the attack of the fire over which they walk, but if such is the case the secret is unknown to Western science. The whole ceremony impressed one with an air of mystery, and we should advise those who doubt this simple account to go and see for themselves next year. Then they will come away as much impressed as the writer.

A FEMALE 'ADMIRABLE ORCHIDON.'

We take the following from the pleasant column of gossip which appears weekly in the Liverpool Post under the heading 'From a London Club Window':—

The engagement of Lady Constance Mackenzie to Captain Fitzgerald is widely circulated. She is certainly one of the most adventurous of modern maidens. Sister and heir-presumptive of the Countess of Cromartie, she is now in her twenty-second year. Not only can she play the bagpipes admirably, but in Scotland she annoys the Highlanders by wearing a kilt, for which, by the way, she has at least a certain amount of historical precedent. At the Bath Club, she is champion swimmer, and has won races in the presence of the King. She can ride anything, from a Shetland pony to a racehorse. She can drive tandem, unicorn, donkeycart, or motor with equal interpidity, and there is not a bit of couragous humour from which she shrinks.

There is not a speck of mischief in her, from her beautiful hair, which she wears short and curly, down to her little feet, which can trip a dance measure to perfection. Everything comes from sheer high spirits and from an innocent enjoyment of life.

She has of late been travelling round the world and was a Durbarite guest of Lord Curzon. She was also at Cairo, where she and Lord Cromartie first fell out, and subsequently parted on the mutual understanding which cements a lifelong friendship. A girl entirely out of the common, she is worthy of the love of a knight-errant of old. Of her future husband, as yet all that is widely known in Society is that he is an officer and a gentleman. Though no date is yet fixed, the marriage will certainly not be solemnized this year.

'Yes; the Newriches' reception after the horse show the other night was select. There were only two common people there. Who were they? 'Mr and Mrs Newriches.'

Mrs Green: 'How does it happen that you are out of work?' 'Dusty Rhodes: 'I belonged to the labour union; den I joined the employers union, and I'm out on strike against myself both ways.'

'Are your relations friendly towards the defendant?' asked the lawyer who was doing a cross-examination stunt. 'All but my mother-in-law,' replied the man in the box. 'She ain't friendly toward anybody.'

Don't Fool With It.

It will not do to fool with a bad cold. No one can tell what the end will be. Pneumonia, scarlet, chronic bronchitis, and consumption invariably result from a neglected cold. As a medicine for the cure of colds, coughs, and influenza, nothing can compare with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

A cough is not a disease, but a symptom. It indicates that the lungs and bronchial tubes are inflamed. This inflammation often leads to pneumonia. The surest way to ward off pneumonia is to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on the first appearance of the cough or cold. It always cures, and cures quickly. For sale by all chemists and medicine vendors; WATKINS Ltd., General Agents.

Pollard Comedy Company Return.

To-morrow night the Pollard Comedy Company open a brief season at the Theatre Royal City Hall in that screaming farce 'A Gay Night in Paris'. The Company returned to the Colony from Shanghai by the s.s. Tientsin this afternoon. It was originally intended to commence the season tonight, but owing to the late arrival of the steamer in port, the management found it impossible to make preparations for a performance and consequently were compelled to postpone the opening until tomorrow evening. Of 'A Gay Night in Paris' the N. C. Daily News says: 'The topsy-turvydom of farce—French farce more especially—plays havoc with morals, but when it does it so wittily as in the amusing piece which has now been given to Shanghai under the title of "A Gay Night in Paris", the wholesomeness of the laughter provoked heels any wound in our moral tissue. Thus we are only too ready to exonerate the really naughty Mrs. Pollard, and our sympathies are altogether with the ingenious Joseph Pinglet, as he first wrig-gles into and then as cleverly wriggles out again from the serape at the Hotel Mascot.
As for the highly virtuous Mrs. Pinglet and the altogether irreproachable Pollard, their woe under an entirely undeserved suspicion touch us not in the least, except to make us realise in them a just retribution for over-circumspection.
All of which is, as we said before, highly improper but equally amusing. Those who saw it played by the A.D.C. some time ago as "A Night Out" remembered how good it was, and the consequence was that Saturday night's audience at the Theatre was one of the largest yet drawn by the Pollard Company, and it laughed itself into complete rapport with the stage.'

Alleged Cure for Leprosy.

A Chinaman at Sourabaya gives out that he has discovered a remedy for leprosy.
He makes much of reported cures by its means in hopes of getting the reward of 100,000 guilders offered by the Government of Netherlands India, in case his alleged discovery stands the test of experiment.
To secure a thoroughgoing test, a ward has been added to the City Hospital there, in which he will treat two specially selected leper patients.

A Serious Loss.

Two American Senators, Messrs Blackburn and Lindsay, of Kentucky, were once travelling together through the Alleghany Mountains. Mr Blackburn went into the smoking-room and returned and in a few minutes looking so much depressed that his colleague asked: 'What's the matter, Joe?' 'Why, I've lost the better part of my baggage,' said Blackburn, in heartbroken tones. 'Was it stolen or did you leave it behind?' 'Worse than either—the cork came out.'

A Ricksha Collision.

On Saturday morning, at about eleven o'clock, a ricksha containing a Japanese woman, was coming along Des Voeux Road, Central and when near the Queen's Statue, another ricksha dashed out of Wardley Street into Des Voeux Road and collided with it. The woman was thrown out on the side of her face, and received several nasty wounds on her hand, face and head.
The coolie who came out of Wardley Street was charged at the Magistracy to-day with causing the collision, after evidence which showed the accused was on the wrong side, Mr J. H. Kemp imposed a fine of $4 or seven days, and ordered him to pay $25 to the Japanese lady and one dollar compensation to the other ricksha coolie.

service held in the colony since 1879, at St.
John's Cathedral yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. After a procession, the hymn, the Rev. H. C. Hodges, M.A., chaplain of the Holy Trinity Cathedral, Shanghai, taking his text from 2 Corinthians, Chapter 12, Verse 5, delivered a sermon, subsequent to which the Rev. Archdeacon W. Banister,

M.A., R.N., the responses being sung by the choir. Stainer's setting in F. of the Gloria, Kyrie, and Credo were rendered by the choir, and the hymn How beautiful upon the mountains was sung. Mrs. Hagen took for her soprano solo the first two verses of Veni, Creator Spiritus in Attwood's setting, and the last two verses were sung by the full choir. The following assisted in the service, the Rev. W. J. Suntham, Cathedral. His Excellency Sir Henry A.

CORRESPONDENCE.

OUR STREETS.

To the Editor of the 'CHINA MAIL.'

Hongkong, September 21, 1903.

Sir,—To any one who has resided some years in this Colony the large class of pedestrians who loaf along our streets, as contrasted with the active and busy workers, is very marked. Well-to-do Chinese tell me that we are now harbouring a swarm of the worst rogues from Canton.
Surely the Police can lay their hands upon a number of these Colonial Miscreants, and it should be the duty of the authorities to have them deported. While reaping a harvest of this kind, many lights may be thrown upon crimes that have taken place in the near past and which still remain to be required: anyway, such a clearance of undesirable would not only add to the security of life and property (which is badly wanted now), but it would undoubtedly prevent many crimes which those loafing Chinese are meditating. It seems to me a great pity that Governor Blake's administration should have been dimmed by the sudden increase of serious crime. But there appears to be a law of cause and effect that cannot be got away from. Fawn and his gang, and the other scoundrels, and the criminal conduct of the Chinese, and the Cantonese, and they turn round and rend you.—Yours, etc.

AN OLD RESIDENT.

THE WAVE OF CRIME.

Wong I Lam, silvermith in the employ of Ng Fuk of 52 Cochrane St., was given some gold to be made into jewellery, and on the article not being made to time, the master of the shop asked the reason why.

No satisfactory explanation being forthcoming, Ng Fuk called in a policeman, and gave his employee into custody. Subsequent examination showed that seven diamonds were also missing and suspicion naturally fell on the employee in question.
Inspector Gauld instituted inquiries the result of which was the recovery of one diamond and the gold from a pawnshop.
At the Magistracy this morning, before Mr T. Sercombe Smith, Wong I Lam was charged with stealing seven diamonds, valued at $550, and four mace seven candles of gold valued at $20, a total value of $570. Evidence by the pawnbroker was given to the effect that the accused was the man who pawned the diamond and gold, and after hearing that, His Worship remanded the case until Friday next at noon.

A house coolie, named Li Lam, formerly in the employ of the mistress of Rose Villa East, Bonham Road, appeared before Mr T. Sercombe Smith, at the Magistracy to-day, charged with stealing one silver knife and spoon valued at $2.

The articles were missed, and after investigations were found in the possession of the accused. A sentence of one month's hard labour was imposed.For stealing an overcoat valued $10, property of Ho Chuk Hai, tailor, of Deaconsfield Arcade, on the 23rd inst., Ho Kam was sentenced to one month's gaol by Mr T. Sercombe Smith at the Magistracy to-day.

PROMENADE CONCERT.

On Saturday night the third open-air concert of the season was given on the Volunteer Parade Ground under the auspices of the Hongkong Volunteer Corps.
The attendance was excellent, but on the whole the performance was not so good as those submitted on previous occasions, although one or two numbers stood out conspicuously and ranked as high as any yet heard in amateur circles in the Colony.The singing of Mrs A. G. Gordon was the feature of the entertainment, and her skilled treatment of 'Beloved it is morn', in the first portion of the concert —when she kindly appeared in the place of Mr C. H. Lammert who was indisposed—was such as to evoke a storm of applause and a demand for further favours. In response to the encore Mrs Gordon sang 'She wore a wreath of roses,' and in that favourite her mellow contralto was heard to great advantage. In the second part she gave Tosti's beautiful 'La Serenata,' and as an encore Lord Henry Somerset's 'Hush me, Oh sorrow,' compositions containing charming melody which the singer produced without apparent effort and with the most pleasing results.Mr C. H. Grace, the ever-popular baritone, was encouraged by his interpretation of 'The Yeoman's Wedding' and he played the violin in equally effective manner. The male quartette, 'The Belouin Love Song,' by Messrs. Wacker and Wagner, who have earned quite a reputation for themselves, were below the mark, and their first effort 'Bunde-laid,' by Wacker, were very poorly executed. 'Soldaten-Abchied' by Stein was their second number, and in it they were better in time and tone, receiving an encore. It should be mentioned that at the last moment Mr Mirow became indisposed, and his place was taken on very short notice by Mr Wagner, Mrs A.
Macgowan, who has a beautiful soprano voice, was unable to do herself justice in Cowen's 'Promise of Life,' not having quite recovered from a bad attack of fever.
The only tenor soloist to appear was Mr C. H. Edwards, and he was not in the best of health. He sang 'My Queen' by Blumenthal with good effect, however, and was warmly applauded. The comic portion of the programme was sustained by Messrs Davidson, R. C. A., and R. H. Spurgeon.
The songs of both being appreciated by the audience. There were only two instrumental soloists—Mr P. L. Miller and Mr F. C. Barlow. The former was encouraged by his violin selection 'Le Reve' by Goldman, and he played Goldschmidt's 'Barcouse de Jocelyn.' Mr Barlow gave a fine rendition of Handel's 'Sonata in A,' and received a cordial ovation in acknowledgment.The performances by the orchestra, which were looked forward to with great expectation, were disappointing. The performers were a little too ambitious in selecting compositions that need long and careful practice, and consequently they failed to produce the effect aimed at by the composers. For the popular interest from 'Cavalleria Rusticana' they were encored. The other pieces they essayed were Humperdinck's 'Hansel and Gretel,' Grieg's 'Peer Gynt' Suite—'Morning,' 'The Death of Ase,' 'Aida's dance' and 'The Dance in the Hall of the Mountain Kings' and Nos. 1 and 2 of Brahms Hungarian dances. Mr George Grimble conducted the orchestra and the members present were—First Violin, Miss G. B. Bony, Messrs F.
C. Barlow, C. Schroter, G. Sydney
A. Howard, Xavier, Schmidt, Rozario, and Mr Rozario, Junr.; violoncellos, Mr Koenig, and Mr P. L. Miller; double bass, mel, and Stias, and Sergt. Jenkins, R. E.;

THE POLITICAL CRISIS.

Letter from Mr Chamberlain.

LONDON, September 18.

Mr Chamberlain, writing to Mr Balfour on the 9th inst., said, he recognised that owing to the Liberal leaders' rejection of all enquiry and their unscrupulous use of the 'dear loaf' cry, there was at present no hope for successfully pressing the question of preference to the Colonies. He suggested that Mr Balfour should limit the present policy of the Government to reforms which will enable us to retaliate upon foreign countries refusing equitable reciprocity, reforms in favour of which there is at present a strong popular feeling.Mr Chamberlain himself cannot accept the exclusion of so important a part of his political programme and therefore resigns, believing that he can best promote the cause he has at heart outside the Cabinet.The King has accepted the resignations of Lord George Hamilton, Mr Chamberlain and Mr Ritchie.

THE NEW MINISTERS.

The general impression is Mr Austen Chamberlain will succeed Mr Ritchie as Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr St. John Brodrick, Lord George Hamilton as Secretary of State for India.Lord Milner is mentioned as the possible successor to Mr Chamberlain, though some say that Lord Selborne will fill the post of Secretary of State for the Colonies.

LORD CURZON MENTIONED.

LONDON, September 19.

The papers publish a rumour that the Government is considering offering the Foreign Office to Lord Curzon.The report that Lord Milner will be the new Secretary of State for the Colonies gains considerable credence, and there is a consensus of opinion that Mr Austen Chamberlain will succeed Mr Ritchie.

THE NEAR EAST.

LONDON, September 18.

Austria and Russia have sent a circular to the Powers expressing their determination to persist in the Reform Scheme, in spite of the events in Macedonia.The warlike excitement in Sofia has been freshly heated by reports of a frightful indiscriminate massacre in the town of
